

WASHINGTON, D.C. JOURNALISM JOB FAIR

Hosted by Georgetown University's Master's in Journalism Program

March 3, 2014

Chapter Members,

We, the Washington, D.C. chapter presidents of the National Association of Hispanic Journalists, Asian American Journalists Association, the National Lesbian and Gay Journalists Association, the Society of Professional Journalists and the Washington Association of Black Journalists, are pleased to announce a joint job fair.

The Washington, D.C. Area Journalism Job Fair hosted by Georgetown University's Master's in Journalism Program will be held Saturday, April 12 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in downtown Washington.

The job fair will take place at the Georgetown Downtown campus, located at 640 Massachusetts Ave. NW, just two blocks from the Gallery Place Metro Station.

We designed the job fair so our Washington, D.C. -area members will have the opportunity to meet with local hiring managers. We want local employers to meet our pool of qualified and diverse candidates -- from experienced journalists to recent graduates -- who are ready to work.

For $10, job seekers can attend the job fair, meet with hiring managers at exhibit tables as well as network with other area journalists and employers in a lounge area.

We need your help making our joint job fair a success! In the next few days, we will ask you to ask your employer to recruit at the fair. The cost for a booth is $100. We will send a letter you can give to your hiring manager or human resources representative.

We are grateful for your commitment to a diverse workplace and we look forward to working with you.

Sincerely,

Brandon Benavides
President, NAHJ D.C.

Donna Walker

Curtis Tate

Seung Min Kim
